

WOMEN'S LIB

*I'm going to demand my equal rights
My husband must know his place
I'm going to build my muscles
And get rid of frills and lace*

*I'm going to wear a pair of pants
I'm going to be a winner
(But first I think I'll brush my hair
And get my darling's dinner)*

LOVE

*I see your face in every thought
I'm fascinated with your charms
My world explodes in happiness
When I hold you in my arms*

*I kiss your lips each morning
And when the day is through
I lay me down to sleep awhile
And always dream of you*

DANDELIONS

*I see the beautiful rose
That I've always adored
But the magnificent rose is something
I never could afford*

*But still my soul is happy
My heart is fancy free
For God has made the dandelions
And given them all to me*

THE BATH

*There are certain things I really hate
Like geography and math
But the worse thing in all this world
Is having to take a bath*

*There is something very puzzling
That makes my mind a wreck
How can so much dirt adhere
To such a tiny neck?*
